

FOR PRESIDENT:
JAMES A. GARFIELD,
of Ohio.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT:
CHESTER A. ARTHUR,
of New York.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

GEORGE W. COLLINS,
of Kansas.

JAMES LAIRD,
of Kansas.

JOHN M. THURSTON,
of Nebraska.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

For Member of Congress,
EDWARD E. VALENTINE.

For Member of Congress (Contingent), THOMAS J. MAJORS.

For Governor,
ALBINO NANCE.

For Lieutenant Governor,
E. C. CARNS.

For Secretary of State, S. J. ALEXANDER.

For Auditor,
JOHN WALLICH.

For Treasurer,
G. M. BARTLETT.

For Attorney-General,
C. J. DILLWORTH.

For Commissioner of Public Lands and Buildings,
A. G. KENDALL.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction,
W. W. JONES.

DISTRICT TICKET.

For Attorney—Third Judicial District,
N. J. BUCHANAN.

FATHER SEGUIN, a Roman Catholic clergyman in Canada, has announced his conversion to Protestantism.

Father Seguin wants to get married.

The Sultan has risen on his dignity and demands the removal of the ships of the powers from before Daulogio.

The Porte has ceased to answer "by the powers."

HANCOCK's recent letters and telegrams are said to have been written with a quill pen. This probably accounts for his making such a goose of himself.

HENRY WARD BEECHER is about to start Ohio and Indiana for Garfield and Arthur. It will now be in order for Tilton to take the stump for Hancock and English.

REPUBLICANS can lose both Ohio and Indiana if they carry New York, for the same influence which will carry New York will also cause Connecticut and New Jersey to wheel into the republican column.

AFTER nearly three months search and failure, all the bodies in the Hudson River tunnel have been recovered.

It is said that there will be great difficulty in finding laborers to continue the work under the bed of the river.

The strength of the greenback party in Indiana is variously estimated. Their leaders place it at 70,000 votes, and are confident of carrying six counties and electing De La May in the Seventh and their candidate in the Tenth congressional district.

The democratic estimate of the greenback vote at 10,000, and say the total vote of all parties will reach 480,000—40,000 more than in 1876.

THE Lincoln Journal comes out flat-footed against any railroad legislation by the next legislature. That paper professes to be the official organ of the republican party of this state, and its editor, Mr. Gere is a candidate for the state senate on the republican ticket.
Will Mr. Gere, through the Journal, explain how he can reconcile his attitude in opposition to any railroad legislation with the sixth plank of the republican platform in this state, whereby all candidates of the party are pledged to secure the passage of laws to prevent abuses and discrimination by railroad corporations? Does Mr. Gere repudiate the platform on which he stands, or does he regard it as mere trap to bait gophers? If Mr.
Gere is so notoriously a straddler and fence-sitter, and owns his nomination to a pack of scoundrels, talks thus loudly before the people, what may the producers of this state and people expect of him during the legislature.

Some parties in Des Moines, Iowa, are engaged in the laudable enterprise of raising subscriptions for starving Nebraskans, whose distress, misery and destitution are painted by these tearful philanthropists in lurid colors.

The Bee has taken some pains to ascertain the truth of the reports, which have from time to time found their way to the office, of the destitution in the Republican valley, and is convinced that such reports have been a gross exaggeration of the true state of affairs. There is no reason to believe that the country is not fairly well cared for of such of their population as have been unfortunate through late planting and other incidental mistakes. The majority of our pioneers will be able to pull through the winter without aid from outside the neighborhood.

Many remonstrances have reached
The Bee regarding these solicitations of charity, are amounting through the country entirely unauthorized by the people of the Republican valley. Our correspondents inform us that the community in the Beaver valley is excellent, and where properly cultivated has yielded from 40 to 60 bushels an acre, and that all through the valley enough has been raised to support the people through the winter. The B. & M. company, by immediately extending their road west, will furnish employment to the farmers and their teams and thus distribute a large sum of money through the district.

Through these means, aided by the pluck, energy and perseverance of the people of the valley, little aid will be required and little accepted.

The parties who are crying loudly for aid do not represent the sentiment of the section and are, in nearly every instance either shiftless farmers in their first years' residence or migrating sawyers who are never settled in any locality.

LIGHT SHADE.

There is a good deal of light and some shadow to the late State Fair.
The Bee has presented the bright side but it may be profitable to take a glance at its shadow. As a whole, the exposition was a success and exhibited credit upon managers and exhibitors. The most glaring want was seen in the exhibit of products of Nebraska's soil. Only four or five counties out of the fifty-six were represented in the exhibit of fruit and vegetable products. The same number occupied space in the exhibit of grain and farm products.

The Union Pacific which traverses over 400 miles of Nebraska, had an exhibit made up mainly of coal from Wyoming, mineral specimens from Colorado, petrified wood from Idaho, mineral water from Utah, and the exhibit of small collection of woods not a single product from Nebraska was exhibited. The main line of the Union Pacific passes through Douglas, Sunny, Colfax, Platte, Morrill, Hall, Bathurst, Lincoln and Cheyenne counties, and its branches run through Sunderland, Butler, Polk, Stanton and others, whose products this year must aggregate millions of bushels of corn, wheat, barley, oats, and potatoes.
No samples of these products were exhibited and visitors could form little conception of the resources of our state, judged by the Union Pacific exhibit. Douglas county, which this year excels in quantity, quality and variety of farm products, was represented in the fair by store goods, manufactured articles, and a few plates of fruit, a few glasses of jelly, two or three samples of butter, little honey, and a good collection of poultry. Had Douglas county exhibited her agricultural products, it could have filled the entire building with samples of her corn, wheat, potatoes, garden products and general farm products. This would have been a very effective advertisement to visitors from abroad who desired to locate in Nebraska.

The lack of space for exhibiting our commercial facilities was notable.
Had the space which was given to side shows for monstrosities and humbugs of all sorts been assigned to the merchants of Omaha, the exhibit would have been more complete and satisfactory all around. In the machinery department the most serious want felt was the lack of gearing. The show in machinery was unsuccessful, but machinery and gearing were late in being placed in position.

AN INFAMOUS SWINDLE.

During the State Fair week there appeared on the local page of the Omaha Republican the following advertisement:

OMAHA REPUBLICAN PREMISE.
This paper will give $25 as a premium for the best and most sewing machine, producing the greatest and most range of work in the quickest and easiest manner. Said machine to be on exhibition at the State Fair and premium to be awarded by a committee composed of ladies selected for the purpose.

On Sunday morning the Republican announced, with a grand flourish of trumpets, which filled nearly a column in that paper, that the committee after mature deliberation, had awarded the above premium to the Davis sewing machine exhibited at the state fair.

The patrons of the Republican and the people of this state and county, will be amazed to learn that this premium was a put up job, procured and paid for by Mr. Gere, the editor of the Republican, who is a candidate for the state senate on the republican ticket.
Will Mr. Gere, through the
Journal, explain how he can reconcil-
e his attitude in opposition
to any railroad legislation with
the sixth plank of the republican platform in this state, whereby all candidates of the party are pledged to se-
cure the passage of laws to prevent
abuses and discrimination by railroad
corporations? Does Mr. Gere re-
pudiate the platform on which he
stands, or does he regard it as mere
trap to bait gophers? If Mr.
Gere is so notoriously a straddler and
fence-sitter, and owns his nomination to
a pack of scoundrels, talks thus loudly
before the people, what may the
producers of this state and people expect of him during the legislature.

Some parties in Des Moines, Iowa,
are engaged in the laudable enter-
prise of raising subscriptions for starving
Nebraskans, whose distress, misery
and destitution are painted by these
tearful philanthropists in lurid colors.

The Bee has taken some pains to as-
certain the truth of the reports,
which have from time to time found
their way to the office, of the destitu-
tion in the Republican valley, and is
convinced that such reports have been
a gross exaggeration of the true
state of affairs. There is no reason
to believe that the country is not
fairly well cared for of such of their
population as have been unfor-
tunate through late planting
and other incidental mistakes. The
majority of our pioneers will be able
to pull through the winter without aid
from outside the neighborhood.

Many remonstrances have reached
The Bee regarding these solicitations
of charity, are amounting through the
country entirely unauthorized by the
people of the Republican valley. Our
correspondents inform us that the community in the Beaver valley is excellent,
and where properly cultivated has
yielded from 40 to 60 bushels an acre,
and that all through the valley enough
has been raised to support the people
through the winter. The B. & M.
company, by immediately ex-
tending their road west, will fur-
nish employment to the farmers and
their teams and thus distribute a large
sum of money through the district.

Through these means, aided by the
pluck, energy and perseverance of the
people of the valley, little aid will be required and little accepted.

The parties who are crying loudly
for aid do not represent the sentiment
of the section and are, in nearly every
instance either shiftless farmers in
their first years' residence or migrating
sawyers who are never settled in
any locality.

THE BUE'S HURRAH.

Interesting Details of the Recent Celebration in Boston, Mass.

Eloquent Words of Noted Men.

The following letter was, from some unknown cause, delayed in the mails.
Special Correspondent of the Bee.

Boston, September 18.—Hurrah for the old Pilgrim fathers! Here stands their city to-day in gala dress, ready to remember, to honor, to celebrate the stout arms and stout hearts of the brave men who laid her foundations in the wilderness. Who says New England hearts are cold?
Did they not keep out the winter's cold when they landed on our stern coast in that bleak December of 1620?

Did they grow cold and faint through the long years of travail in which the Commonwealth was born into this New World? Did they falter amid the stormy trials of the English revolution, or later in the mighty struggle that wrought their own independence?

So today we greet you, our brethren in the west, and look to you to fulfill the same grand destiny which your New England fathers fulfilled. We tell you that our hearts still burn with the old Anglo-Saxon fire. That today when we remember that we have completed the first quarter of the cycle of ten centuries, we do not forget our far-off daughter of the west who has just completed the first quarter of a century. Let them not forget that the new era demands of them proportionately greater performances if they would be worthy of the fathers who braved the greater hardships of the old era.

Already, for days, preparations for the grand fête has kept the old city in a stir. Like a vast whirlpool she devours to draw into her vortex the devotion of the remotest parts of the Union. As the day grows nearer the tide becomes stronger. The hotels become to feel the pressure of the unusual demands made upon them, and the boarding houses to reap the harvest of guests. On the Common, where fame is almost co-existent with that of our city, were tents, and a busy crowd of workmen were preparing for the parade which was to follow the celebration.

A week of cloudy, rainy, unattended weather ushered in one of the most lovely evenings of our most lovely season, and the events of the day were anticipated by a gathering of thousands of people in the city.

The first division contained the villages of the city, and the second the 13th and 23rd regiments of New York, Company H of the 9th regiment, 6th regiment, Veteran corps and Lincoln Guards, also of New York, and the Langston Guard of Norfolk, Virginia.

The second division contained representations from the G. A. R. and the Boston school regiments. The latter did some creditable marching. There were also numerous fire companies and various other past appliances for putting out fires.

As the part of the procession was halted at your correspondent's position an alarm of fire was rung in from a district in the vicinity, and the crowd was parted for the purpose of clearing the way for the fire engine.

The affair was soon over, and one of the returning companies joined the procession, eliciting much applause and many cheers.

The fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh divisions were made up of various societies in appropriate regalia, and numerous companies representing the various trades and industries of the city.

The last was a Mechanics' exhibition on wheels, not to speak of small armies of employees who were occasionally by several large firms, not least Jordan, Marsh & Co. and the Bay State Iron Co. A unique feature of Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s display was a large large figure with a large head and a small body, dressed in a dressed in white, with blue sashes over their shoulders. It would be useless to attempt a description of the numerous devices for advertising trades that found their way into the ranks of the procession. Several firms undertook to show the "old" along with the "new" and gave striking illustrations of the march of progress. The time occupied by the procession in passing any one point was about three hours and a half.

The route was thronged with a vast crowd, and considerable congestion was manifested among the spectators.
Among the individuals who attracted notice was the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. He rode in the head of the Thirteenth New York regiment, which he is chaplain. He was dressed in the customary black cityman's tail, and showed his military position by his chaplain's merely.

It will be difficult to convey to a western man who has never seen a New England demonstration of this kind, the feeling of enthusiasm that permeated all classes of society, the good natured endurance with which the crowds of men, women and children stood for hours before and during the passage of the procession, and they might enjoy the spectacle, and the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of $25,000 was supplemented by private enterprise, which contributed to the general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say nothing of the display of the electric lights on the Common by Jordan, Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the Grand Tower and other magnificent trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in
the arrangement of the floats. To say
nothing of the display of the electric
lights on the Common by Jordan,
Marsh & Co., and the concert under
their auspices by Gilmore's Band, the
Grand Tower and other magnificent
trading outfit, and every one of the
floats with all their paraphernalia, and
the general good order and clock-like
working of the whole affair.

The procession was twice reviewed on
the march, first by Gov. Lowell, and
then by the chief marshal, Augustus
P. Martin. The city appropriation of
$25,000 was supplemented by private
enterprise, which contributed to the
general success of the undertaking.

This was strikingly manifested in the arrangement of the floats. To